

We are pleased to welcome Greg Denton as a Senior Advisor to The Lantau Group

Greg has nearly 20 years of experience in the electricity and gas industries in a variety of consulting, trading and strategy roles, both in Australia and internationally. Most recently he held a number of executive positions with WorleyParsons. He was involved in the implementation of the market and regulatory structures for electricity and gas in South Australia and Western Australia, established an energy market trading organization, and has led the delivery of infrastructure projects. Greg was formerly the Chairman of the Australian Sustainable Energy Association.

Greg holds an MBA with distinction from Wake Forest University, and Bachelor of Arts (economics & politics) and Commerce (finance) degrees from the University of Otago (NZ).

What's going on in Australia

TLG is pleased to welcome Greg Denton, a long-time friend and former colleague — back to Australia. Greg is an experienced consultant on a range of issues affecting Australian energy stakeholders in both the eastern NEM, and in Western Australia.

Along with TLG partner Sarah Fairhurst, Greg's experience extends back to the South Australian privatisation, the design of vesting contracts, and gas sector restructuring and commercial arrangements.

Along with TLG partner Mike Thomas, Greg also played a key role in the the National Electricity Tribunal matter on the unregulated Murraylink transmission line matter that clarified the need for reforms to network cost-benefit assessment.

In WA, Greg worked at Verve Energy on regulatory issues, including dispatch incentives and the definition of short-run marginal cost.

Greg held a number of executive positions with a global engineering consultancy in Australia and for a short period in South Africa.

Greg has extensive experience at the intersection of new generation technologies and commercial electricity markets.

In Australia, TLG works with a range of stakeholders, providing strategic advisory services including modelling support, market analysis, and regulatory and market design analysis. When it benefits our clients, we also work, in Australia and elsewhere, with our Australian-based friends at Oakley Greenwood Pty Ltd, Market Reform, and EMCa.
